

As a dentist you are well trained to restore teeth or even place implants in a healthy occlusion; However....

Did you know that an unhealthy occlusion might be related to:

Fracturing Porcelain
Fractured Cusps
(Migraine) headaches

Gingival Abfractions
Failing Implants or Bone Loss
Snoring/Sleep Apnea

Abnormal Bite Adjustments
Tooth Mobility
Worn Dentition from Clenching/ Bruxing

Are you POSSIBLY restoring teeth or placing implants on patients that have an existing dysfunctional occlusal system?

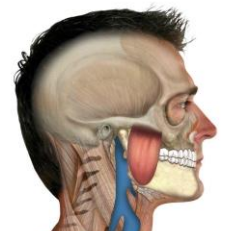

Restoring dentitions with implants or crown/bridge to a dysfunctional occlusion and/or airway could be catastrophic to longevity of restorations and dentition and you possibly could be locking them into a pathological condition.
